Summary

About

I am a dedicated software developer with a strong foundation in problem-solving, a deep technical curiosity, and a commitment to impactful software solutions. My coding journey began in eighth grade, and since then, I have built projects such as a maze generation algorithm and web applications, continually expanding my skills across various technologies. I have overcome financial challenges to pursue my passion for technology, developing resilience and adaptability along the way. Outside of coding, I enjoy exploring the outdoors, staying active, and seeking new challenges that inspire personal growth.
